

Hi Folks,

It was so good to see you in class yesterday, and sense your eagerness to learn new things about your iPhone and taking photos. I realize that I covered a lot of material in the one class, and went over time. Hopefully the other classes will be a little slower.

In case you didn't realize it, I was recording the whole class yesterday. Today, Jessica helped me put it onto YouTube. I have done this so that you can go back and watch any parts you would like to review.

Also, I have created a webpage for this class on my site. So far, I put some pictures showing suggested composition ideas for you to think about, and try shooting.

For next week's class we will be out and about taking pictures. You may meet at the O'Neil Theater OR the Provincial House lobby at 2:00 to get your handout and meet one of us. Hopefully both Karen Eikenberry and Judy Liebo will be assisting in one of these locations. If it is raining, look for interesting places inside to take pictures. The Provincial House is extremely photogenic as is the Dunn and lobbies of the Village buildings.

Enjoy practicing your new skills!
